Confidential; Deliberative; Do Not Release

All,

The team is integrating the various OMB and EPA program comments and intends to get the revised final draft out later this evening or early tomorrow. There are a lot of comments and the team is working as quickly as possible.

Please review the final draft carefully, with a particular emphasis on your various programs. I will be reading the complete draft this weekend as well, including the water program elements. The draft is scheduled to go back to OMB on Tuesday, so please provide us with any remaining comments on Monday morning. Given the short turnaround, please keep the edits to critical issues or typographical edits. Redlines as opposed to bubble comments will help expedite the process. We can schedule some time Monday to talk if there are larger issues to resolve.

Regional Administrators, please use this weekend as an initial awareness review. Our program and communication teams will be reaching out shortly to schedule detailed briefings and training for you and key regional staff to support the upcoming rollout of the management plan.

Thanks for your continued support.

Regards,

Dave
